Pam Fulmer has over 26 years of experience litigating all types of intellectual property and commercial disputes. Her cases have included patent, trademark, trade secret and copyright infringement, as well as privacy related lawsuits. Pam also has experience in lawsuits involving false advertising, unfair competition, trade libel, licensing, and other complex litigation. She advises her clients on the risks and benefits of post grant review proceedings, and how these proceedings can be used to favorably resolve patent litigation. In addition to her intellectual property practice, Pam has deep experience representing technology and other clients in high-stakes commercial litigation. This litigation has included breach of contract cases as well as lawsuits raising claims of misrepresentation, breach of fiduciary duty, breach of the implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing and other business torts.

In addition to her litigation practice, Pam has a great deal of experience defending software audits by software companies including Oracle Corporation and Oracle America, Inc., and has dealt with various Oracle related issues such as VMware virtualization and hosting, and a number of other areas of claimed under-licensing. She has worked with her clients to develop strategies to mitigate these issues and successfully pushback on audit findings.

Pam started her career as an associate at Howard Rice Nemerovski Canady Falk & Rabkin (now Arnold & Porter), making partner in 1998. After leaving Howard Rice in 2005 after 14 years, Pam has been a partner at some of the largest and most prestigious international law firms in the world including Jones Day, DLA Piper and Dentons. Her practice has been a mix of intellectual property and commercial cases, with a focus on practical and cost effective solutions to her clients' problems. Although many of her clients are located in the Bay Area, her practice is national in scope and she has litigated cases across the United States. She co-founded Fulmer Ware LLP in 2016 after 24 years of big law firm practice.

In addition to her litigation practice, Pam also counsels clients on IP and other business issues. She has seen first-hand how bad contracts can cause big problems, and she works closely with her clients to assist in the negotiation of all different types of business agreements. Pam also assists with the drafting of website terms of use, privacy policies and other documents involving the conduct of business on the Internet.

Pam has represented clients in courts and arbitral forums across the country. Her cases have included technologies involving e-commerce and the Internet, cellular communications, streaming media, ad serving, email messaging and security, telecommunications, computer hardware and software, medical devices, pharmaceuticals, water filtration technology, biotechnology, sports and consumer products. She is adept at developing cost-effective strategies to successfully resolve litigation on behalf of her clients.

A trusted advisor to technology, consumer products and other companies, Pam works hard to understand her clients' business in order to deliver the very best legal advice.
